

SCOPING PROJECT COMPETITION

The Music Therapy Charity announces a competition for funds for a scoping project. Applications are invited for project proposals likely to result in large-scale consortial bids for funding to national or international research bodies to investigate crucial and underdeveloped aspects of —or fields in— music therapy research.

Funding

Total costs must not exceed £17K for the duration of the scoping project.

Activity

The aim of the scoping project should be to identify a research focus in an underdeveloped aspect or field of music therapy and develop a collaborative research proposal to investigate it.

Each application to the scoping project competition must involve at least two HE institutions (the lead institution being based in the UK) and may involve music therapy organisations. At least one of the HE institutions involved must have a significant track record of successful research in music therapy.

Closing date for applications: 04/09/23
