

The entry bursary has played a pivotal role in facilitating my path towards becoming a professional music therapist. Its advantages have had a profound impact on both my academic and professional development. To begin, the financial assistance provided by the bursary has alleviated a significant portion of the financial challenges associated with my educational journey. This financial relief has allowed me to dedicate more time and energy to my coursework, clinical placements, and personal growth. For instance, I have been able to invest in additional resources like instruments and books, which have enriched my learning experience and clinical practice.

One outstanding aspect of the bursary is the freedom it gives me to explore my interests in music therapy. It has enabled me to read extensively on topics that genuinely interest me, like psychoanalysis and child development. These readings have proven immensely valuable in my clinical work during placements, equipping me with a deeper understanding of music therapy's therapeutic processes.

Looking ahead to my future career, I aspire to work as a music therapist in the UK. The bursary has given me the financial stability to pursue this goal with confidence. Moreover, the readings I immersed myself in during my first year have ignited a passion for delving deeper into the realm of music therapy research. This newfound enthusiasm drives my desire to actively participate in research projects that propel the field forward and ultimately enhance the lives of individuals through music therapy.

In conclusion, the bursary has not only eased my financial burdens but has also empowered me to invest in valuable resources and develop as a music therapist. It has stoked my interest in contributing to music therapy research and has laid a strong foundation for my journey toward becoming a proficient music therapist.
